as we see it

"It's getting worse and worse," said our friend.

"What, television?" we asked.

"No, television is getting better," he said. "That's what makes things worse around our house. There are so many good shows on at the same time—how do you decide what to watch?"

If ever there was an opening for a TV GUIDE sales talk, that was it. But we resisted the impulse and considered his problem. Take Tuesday night as an example.

You begin by watching Warner Brothers Presents for an exciting film drama, and it isn't half over before you're wondering whether Berle (or Martha Raye or Bob Hope) might not be starting a good show, or whether you really shouldn't be tuning to Navy Log, the fine new CBS series. If you're a Berle fancier, half-way through his show you're wondering what Wyatt Earp's up to, and just how funny Phil Silvers is going to be at the same time. And so it goes the rest of the evening—up to The $64,000 Question, when there seems to be no doubt in anyone's mind where to tune.

We don't think there's room for complaint about this Year of Plenty on TV. Networks are outdoing themselves —and if there are a number of good programs on at the same hour, we'd rather miss a few than have the networks give up their competitive battle for attention. The hotter the competition, the better for the audience.

Well, we finally yielded to that impulse and pointed out to our friend that with TV GUIDE's program details at hand, he'd know pretty well, in advance, which shows he'd enjoy; and when something extra-special was in the offing, TV GUIDE would tell.

We sold him, all right; but it seems he and his family still didn't quite agree on shows. Poor fellow wound up buying a second television set!

HOLLYWOOD Dan Jenkins reports:

Rumors concerning demise of I Love Lucy, following NBC's signing of Lucy's producer-headwriter, JESS OPPENHEIMER, effective next spring, have been firmly spiked by DESI ARNAZ. "We have no such plans," he told TV GUIDE. "I hate to see JESS go, but his leaving won't interfere in the slightest with whatever plans we make for the show. Personally, I would like to expand Lucy to a full hour every week, maybe even in color, using big-name guest stars--say, three weeks out of four--to help LUCY and me carry the load. But we'd still appear in every show. Of course, this is just my own plan for the show and will have to be concurred in by both CBS and the sponsors. We are working on that right now. CBS, you see, has an option on Lucy for 1956-57. Sure, we'll miss JESS. But, who knows?" he added. "By next spring Desilu might buy NBC, and we'd all be back together again!"

There's a good chance that VAN JOHNSON will do a CBS spectacular before the season is out (script is already written), and sign up as host and sometime star of an anthology film series . . . Superman (GEORGE REEVES) isn't that super--his studio's insured him for $100,000.

SIR CEDRIC HARDWICKE, FAY BAINTER, CLAIRE LUCE (the actress) and JOHN BARRYMORE, JR. signed to star in one or more Matinee Theater shows. NBC's daytime drama series, which debuts Oct. 31, already has more than $1,000,000 worth of sponsorship aboard. While Matinee is based in Hollywood, producer ALBERT McCLEERY will originate at least one show each month from New York.

Former movie star LAURA LA PLANTE makes her first camera appearance in 15 years for her TV bow in an upcoming episode of It's a Great Life . . . LEO DUROCHER will soon be handling West Coast sportscasting chores for NBC and may do a weekly show of his own.

DICK POWELL will bow out of Four Star Playhouse next year to do his own series, Willie Dante, based on the gambler character he has already played twice on Four Star. One "Dante" episode, in fact, was the series' debut show three years ago.

ROSALIND RUSSELL may reprise her "Wonderful Town" Broadway role on Producers' Showcase in November, possibly with DAVID WAYNE . . . HUMPHREY BOGART is looking for a seven-foot actor to play the giant boxer in "The Harder They Fall." How about MICKEY ROONEY standing on GEORGE GOBEL's shoulders?

Healer Of The Sick...

Richard Boone Symbolizes Physicians Of The Nation In TV's Stark 'Medic'

In two-part drama, mother (Gloria McGhee) has urge to kill her child.

She finds first night in mental hospital terrifying.

Husband brings flowers and news about child.

Two of the most authentically detailed shows in TV, Dragnet and Medic, spring pretty much from the same source. With Jack Webb as its creator and star, Dragnet was written, in its radio and early TV days, by James Moser. In the summer of 1950, Moser also wrote a single radio drama, "The Doctor," which turned out to be the forerunner of Medic. One of the show's doctors was an unknown bit player named Richard Boone. Today Boone plays Dr. Konrad Styner, host and frequent star of Medic, which was created and is written by Moser.

If Dragnet is authentic, Medic is almost appallingly so. Its recent two-parter on post-partum psychosis dealt with a subject generally considered taboo by the broadcasting industry—the post-birth mental condition of a woman bent on killing her own—or anyone else's—baby.

"There was only one way to do this kind of show," Boone says thoughtfully, "and that was simply and forthrightly. This Moser is a beautiful writer. He knows how to make the 'dirty' words sound like 'hello' or 'goodbye.'"

The post-partum story, "And There Was Darkness . . . And There Was Light," was a far cry from the usual TV drama. The chief burden of its telling lay in the face of actress Gloria McGhee, who had to tread a wavering borderline between sanity and insanity, while her offstage voice told the story of "Frances Dunbar," a mother of four children, whose own childhood experiences with sex instruction had turned her against her husband and later against her fourth baby.

Boone has gained a lasting respect for Moser's talent—and the medical profession—through his association with Medic.

"I suppose," he says, "that we actors seemed just as strange at first to the doctors associated with Medic as they did to us. I think they all wear a protective veneer, a sort of professional aura. But when you finally break through to them, they're pretty real people. And you have to respect them, because where everybody else is dealing with money, they're dealing with human lives."

Boone, a seventh-generation nephew of frontiersman Daniel, is a quietly talkative man of 37 who looks like neither an actor nor a doctor. His craggy face, which once landed him the role of Lincoln in a TV show, bears the marks of his years as a college light-heavyweight boxing champion and as an oilfield worker.

A native of Los Angeles and a graduate of Stanford, he served aboard three aircraft carriers as a Navy crewman in World War II. "One was torpedoed, one bombed and the third hit by a Kamikaze pilot," he says gloomily. "I was getting to be a jinx."

Boone got his growth as an actor with some 100 TV roles in New York between 1948 and 1950, after which he decided to go home to California. "It's the little breaks that count," he says, gesturing oddly with his hands in the manner of a man waving out a couple of lighted matches. "There was that routine call to do a one-shot radio summer show, and four years later somebody remembers it and all of a sudden I'm the guy in Medic."

The latest of a long line of NBC shows thrown against CBS' I Love Lucy on Monday nights, Medic seems to have made the grade against the Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz powerhouse. Asked about Medic's prospects for its second season, Boone raises his eyebrows and says matter-of-factly, "Poor Lucy."

As a working actor, Boone is particularly enthusiastic over Medic as a springboard for his working brethren, the unknown actors and actresses still looking for their break.

"We seldom use a player twice," he says, "and can parcel out roles to a lot of different people. Other shows do that too, of course, but Medic now has a terrific impact. People in the trade watch it, and it's become a good show on which to be seen."

Boone himself can be seen frequently at the local fight arenas, the fight game being his particular spectator sport. "I have to take a lot of kidding about being a doctor and getting up there to fix those cuts," he groans.

When he's not off to the fights, he's home with his wife, Claire, and their 20-months-old son, Peter. Boone recently bought a rambling house in Pacific Palisades, 17 miles west of Hollywood and Vine, and keeps it in a constant state of remodeling.

Medically speaking, Boone is quick to admit he hasn't learned too much as Dr. Styner. "Mostly what the various diseases are. If you'd asked me a year ago about post-partum psychosis, I wouldn't have known what you were talking about. People stop me on the street and call me 'Dr. Styner'; I tell them quickly that I'm just an actor."

Something has rubbed off, however. Nobody gives Boone a simple "pain in the neck," anymore. It's a "compulsive coronary" he gets these days.

Get all the picture power your TV set can deliver

Sylvania "Silver Screen 85" picture tube gives you a brighter, clearer picture, with greater depth, dimension and detail

Now you can get "modern set performance" from your present TV set, simply by having your serviceman install a Sylvania "Silver Screen 85" picture tube. That's because the "Silver Screen 85" has features that make ordinary picture tubes out of date. In the "Silver Screen 85", picture brilliance has been nearly doubled. Picture contrast has been increased 7 times. That means you can get greater picture power with your present TV set. So ask your TV serviceman for a "Silver Screen 85". There's a type to fit virtually every set.

The picture tube with . . .

1. Precision-Focus Electron Gun—Improved electron gun energizes entire screen in pin-point detail. Picture is sharper, clearer.

2. Silver-Activated Screen—Millions of light-producing atoms of silver are added to the screen phosphors to achieve a higher level of picture contrast.

3. Super-Aluminized Reflector—Picture light, previously lost inside the tube, is reflected out toward you. Picture is sparkling bright.

Davy Crockett Rides Again

THIS TIME HE MEETS MIKE FINK, KING OF THE RIVER BOATMEN

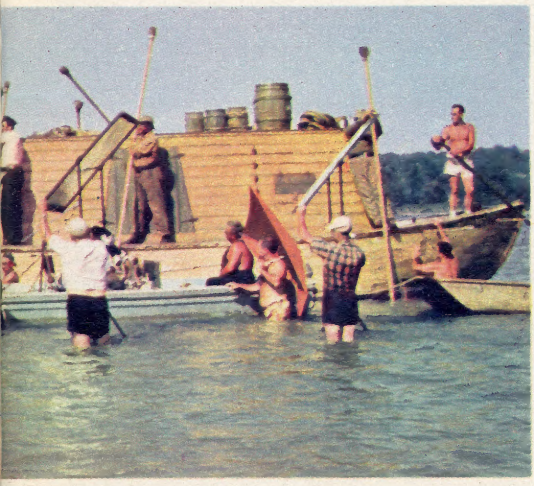
TV GUIDE PREVIEWS

On these pages are the first, exclusive color pictures of the coming adventures of TV's Davy Crockett, filmed in four action-packed weeks on the Ohio. On Nov. 23 and Dec. 14, Davy will ride again on Disneyland—or, more accurately, pole his way down the Mississippi River, taking on Mike Fink, king of the river boatmen, in a keelboat race to end all keelboat races. Mike, a fabulous river pirate who may well start a Crockett-like fad of his own, is portrayed by six-foot-four, 230 pound Jeff York.

Cast and crew 'on location.'

. . . wields mean pole aboard river boat.

Mike Fink (Jeff York) takes on all comers.



George Russel (Buddy Ebsen) is back with Davy. ▶

Every detail of costume, dictated by long tradition, must be perfect. This means long hours before mirrors.

For A Better Understanding

TV' Educational Programs Explain Japanese Way Of Life To The American People

Camera crew shooting one of scenes.

Grace and beauty: two girls dance as others provide instrumental music.

For the first time, Japan's feudalistic Geisha Association has permitted motion camera crews to enter its most sacred precincts in Tokyo's Shimbashi District to photograph a day in the life of a geisha girl. The film was made as one episode of a series of 15-minute shows designed to explain life in Japan to the American TV audience. The geisha, whose entertainment of guests consists of singing, dancing and serving food, have gone through their entire performance for their bow on TV in America.

Lesson: a man teaches tea ceremony.

Who's This Durante?

Jose Ferrer (below) adds nose (above) for 90-minute colorcast of 'Cyrano de Bergerac.'

JOSE FERRER WEARS A NOSE THAT IS A NOSE IN 'CYRANO'

Unlike Jimmy Durante's pride and joy, Jose Ferrer's king-size nose is strictly phony; but like the Schnozzola's, it pays and pays. As Cyrano de Bergerac, Ferrer will don it again on NBC's Producers' Showcase Monday, after wearing it triumphantly on Broadway in 1946; in a one-hour TV drama in 1949, and in the movies (where it earned him an Oscar) in 1950.

Pittsburgh Dateline

Wayne Griffin

Katherine Copeland

Mary and Bea House, of the EZC Ranch Gals, aren't so lonesome in Pittsburgh now. Their husbands have moved here from Louisville . . . Wayne Griffin has rented a house in Mt. Lebanon for the family until he gets the time to look around for something to buy . . . Hank Stohl's new show on KDKA-TV, KDKArtoons, was introduced to the press on a closed circuit telecast the week-end before it premiered . . . The program Katherine Copeland just landed on the CBS network—Talkaround, a teen-age discussion group panel, at 3 o'clock every Sunday afternoon—is one she had in mind for a long time and tried to promote locally without any success while moderating Ask the Girls on Channel 2.

Dick Fraser, whose This Is Richard Fraser had a short but successful ride on KDKA-TV last spring, has gone to New Orleans to look over the television situation in that city . . . The Twin Coaches and Joe Hiller ought to put Arthur Godfrey on their payroll. The Old Redhead has been mighty generous in his plugs lately for both the local night club and the agent who books it . . . The Vogue Terrace has been flooded with reservations for The Goofers, who open October 24, since the boys' big click with Judy Garland. A lot of people think The Goofers were the best thing on the hour-and-a-half show . . . Al Nobel bought his wife one of those little sports cars, but he's so crazy about it himself Vera has begun to suspect her husband of being an Indian-giver . . . A television show was in the works here for Joe Deane when the disc jockey decided to quit KQV and go back to Rochester, N.Y. It would have been along the lines of the old teen-time session he and Ricky Wertz did on WENS when that station was doing live programming.

HAROLD V. COHEN'S Observation Post

Dane Clark never disappoints me. He came up with another crackerjack performance in "The Little Guy" on Fireside Theater. It was a bristling half-hour of pungent drama, too . . . Genuinely touching was the life of Louis Braille on You Are There . . . "Enchanted Cottage" on Video Theater was pure enchantment and, to me at any rate, Dan O'Herlihy was much better than he was in the movie, "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," which won him an Academy nomination last year . . . Saw Your Hit Parade the other Saturday for the first time this season and it's still tops. This is one session that has never let me down. Everything about it has style, class and entertainment plus.

Dane Clark

"Marty" is a warm and wonderful movie—I'm not trying to take anything away from it, mind you—but in my book the original on TV Playhouse was even more warm and wonderful . . . Awards for commercials anyone? My vote goes to those silent-picture vignettes that appear on What's My Line? . . . Sid Caesar's summer replacement may not have been so hot but it did turn up a comic in Phil Foster I think TV can use if they give him half a chance . . . Just picked up an old New Yorker magazine that came while I was away on vacation and loved one of the cartoons in it. Showed a couple watching an actor on television and had the woman saying: "I've seen him lots of times in the movies, but this is the first time I've ever seen him in the flesh."

As far as I'm concerned, they could have called "Heidi" either Hi-Ho or Ho-Hum. Max Liebman certainly hit a clinker on his first Spectacular this season. The charm of the delightful story was gone and it was poorly cast . . . Have a prediction: One of these days Amos 'n' Andy is going to be as big on television as it was once upon a time on radio . . . Smart boy, that Ralph Edwards, picking big shots like George Burns to salute on This Is Your Life. Look at the free talent he got for nothing on that show: Jack Benny, George Jessel, Gracie Allen, etc.

I'll bet the RCA record people blew their top during the first Milton Berle Show, which it sponsors, when the Mary Kaye Trio played "Mad About the Boy," their latest record hit for—Decca, one of the RCA-Victor label's biggest competitors . . . And the Kukla, Fran and Ollie commercial the trio did on that Berle session was priceless. If I hadn't been broke at the time, I would have rushed right out and bought myself five or six of whatever they were selling . . . Eli Wallach doesn't have all the talent in the family. His wife, Anne Jackson, was just as brilliant on the TV Playhouse production of "The Merry-Go-Round" as her husband was the week before that on the same program's "The Outsiders."

4:00 6 7 WIDE WIDE WORLD — Tour

Mermaids at Weeki Wachee

RETURN The aim of Wide Wide World is to make the television camera a vehicle of rapid transportation and take the viewer on a 90-minute electronic tour of points of interest. Dave Garroway is the New York-based guide. Theme of this afternoon's live tour: "A Sunday in Autumn."

San Francisco. The camera rides a cable car.

St. Louis. Viewers board an old-fashioned riverboat and watch a Dixieland band ashore. A shot of the boat from a plane overhead also includes a glimpse of Air Force jets.

Dallas. The cameras visit the Dallas State Fair, the Nation's largest. Sights scheduled: "Big Tex," the giant talking statue; cattle herding; auto thrill race; boys chair; steer-cutting contest; firemen's pumping contest.

Weeki Wachee, Fla. The tropical springs farm a pool here which has been walled in with glass. The fish, the turtles and the bathing beauties cavorting inside are usually viewed through the glass, but the TV cameras are stationed underwater right in the pool.

Lake Mead. Here on the Arizona-Nevada border 34-year-old Donald Campbell of England attempts to break "the water barrier" and surpass his own speedboat record of 202.32 mph. Before the run, Ted Husing interviews Campbell.

Donald Campbell and The Bluebird

Rockefeller Center, New York City. The famed tourist center is seen from a tourist's-eye view. After glimpsing the skyscrapers and the figure skaters on the ice rink, we move inside to the heart of a radio and television network and wind up with the Rockettes, precision dancers of the Radio City Music Hall.

Grand Canyon, Ariz. For the first time this mile-deep gorge on the Colorado River is seen on live TV.

Other stops on the tour include the fishing boats at Gloucester, Mass.; fall scenes at twilight in the East; the steel mills in Cleveland; an irrigation machine in an Omaha corn field.

Credits: Executive Producer: Barry Wood. Producer: Herbert Sussan. Director: Dick Schneider. Writer: Saul Levitt. Composer-conductor: David Broekman.

8:00 2 6 7 10 PRODUCERS' SHOWCASE — Drama

José FERRER in Cyrano de Bergerac

COLOR In 17th-century Paris Cyrano de Bergerac cut a dashing figure. Both swordsman and poet, Cyrano was capable of the grand passion. There was but one sizable obstacle to his complete success — his nose. "'Tis a rock, a crag, a cape!" retorts Cyrano to a nobleman who has made fun of the nose but lacks Cyrano's wit. The 19th-century French dramatist Rostand seized on Cyrano's sensitiveness about his nose and based his poignant romantic comedy on it.

Roxane

Rostand's Cyrano has found the love of his life in the fair Roxane. But shall Roxane give her love to a creature with a probascis like Cyrana's? Not likely. Cyrono, therefore, will do the next best thing. The soldier Christian, handsome but empty-headed, shall woo the maiden with Cyrano's romantic verses.

José Ferrer repeats for television the role that won him resounding praise on the Broodwoy stage and an Oscar in the movies. Co-starring is Chaplin's leading lady of "Limelight," Claire Blaom. And in the role of Christian is Christapher Plummer, hit of the Shakespeore festival at Stratford, Conn.

10:00 9 10 56 BOXING—Championship

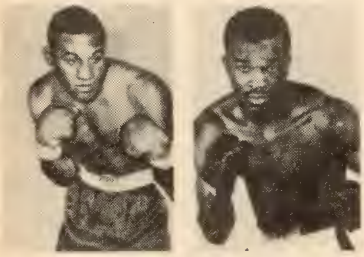
SPECIAL Wallace "Bud" Smith (champion) vs. Jimmy Carter (challenger), lightweights, 15 rounds. Russ Hodges reports from Cincinnati.



Carter vs. Smith

TV GUIDE RATINGS

| | Rating | Bouts | W | L | D | KO's |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Smith | Champ | 48 | 31 | 11 | 6 | 18 |
| Carter | 1 | 99 | 71 | 19 | 9 | 27 |

Carter, in his 100th bout, will be out to regain his title for the third time. He has previously regained it from Paddy DeMarco and Lauro Salas. Smith, who beat Carter for the title in Boston last June, is a well-conditioned, slashing boxer, who will force the ex-champ to maintain a grueling pace from bell to bell.

Pinky paddles own 'canoe' at site of new home.

Nobody Loves Him — But The Kids

Yet Pinky Lee's Popularity, Growing Bankroll Suggest He Has The Last Laugh

Some months ago, at an assemblage of top TV comedians, Milton Berle looked around and cracked: "If a bomb fell on this room tonight, Pinky Lee would be the biggest star in television."

Mr. Lee, even at a distance of 3000 miles, winced noticeably.

Last March, while emceeing a television awards dinner, Steve Allen commented: "The only reason they chose me for this job was because they figured the only guys who couldn't possibly win an award are Steve Allen and Pinky Lee."

Mr. Lee, this time only six miles away, winced even more noticeably.

"Slanderous," said Pinky. "In bad taste, cutting and uncalled-for."

A little later Red Skelton remarked on the air that he had "made the biggest comeback since Pinky Lee."

"Malicious," said Pinky.

But when Joe Frisco said, "They're building an atom bomb so big that it will even wipe out Pinky Lee," Pinky said he didn't mind that at all.

Lee, who is frank to admit that he has never been one of the big stars, apparently has become a natural target for the other comics, a subject on which the diminutive Pinky can wax eloquent at the drop of a question.

"Let's get one thing straight right off the bat," he says earnestly. "I admire and respect every good comedian. I don't have to like him personally, but I admire him and I respect him. I think Steve Allen is great. He's fast on his mental feet. But what does he gain by taking malicious cracks at me or anybody else? I get hurt, and at best he gets a left-handed laugh.

"I never take cracks at anybody on my show. I'm not that kind of comedian. Jokes aren't my style. I'm the wistful little guy who can't get the English language straight. I say to a big guy, 'If you're looking for trouble, mister, I'm just the one who's going to get it.' That's as close as I ever get to making jokes. Besides, the kids I play to wouldn't understand what I was doing if I took a crack at somebody. And besides that, I wouldn't do it."

Pinky, considerably more serious offstage than he is on, has no beef against harmless cracks. "It's great—every time they mention my name it helps. But I resent it when they get mean."

They love him: the children, that is. Three candid photos made during one of Pinky's telecasts.

Considering that Pinky is on the air six times a week, has a multitude of sponsors and grosses in the immediate neighborhood of $150,000 a year, it has been suggested that perhaps he has the last laugh after all.

"I don't want the last laugh," he says, with the earnestness of a lawyer pleading for a client's life. "I'm just happy, that's all. I've found my audience—millions of kids. They love me."

Pinky loves his job and works hard at it—so hard, in fact, that he was hospitalized briefly last month.

"I laid an egg back in 1947 in a New York nightclub," he says. "I almost killed myself. Really. Now look what I have. The guy who wouldn't work his head off to keep it is crazy.

"But I'm hurt when someone says something cruel," he adds, a little wistfully. "I'm a religious man. I believe that when you do something wrong, you have something taken away from you. Believe me, it's tough enough as it is, being a comedian."

It's Always Jan

It's Always Jan—which presents Janis Paige in her first TV series—is worth watching, but it lacks enough novelty to lift it above the "just another situation comedy" groove.

The show depicts the adventures of three career-girl roommates, plus the small daughter of one of them. The stories are funny enough to draw some laughs (although not as many as you'll hear on the sound-track), and they occasionally generate genuine sympathy and affection for the characters portrayed. But the show usually catches fire only when Miss Paige, as a night club singer struggling to become a Broadway star, sings—and she does only one song a week. Otherwise, the show revolves about the problems of Jan's child—the danger of her being spoiled by the three older girls, her chances of becoming a child actress.

Miss Paige makes her role warm and believable, but she should sing more often. Patricia Bright, as a cynical secretary with a heart of gold, has more comedy talent than she's been allowed to display so far. Merry Anders plays the third roommate, a curvaceous, blonde model, but hasn't much to do. Arte Johnson is good as a wise-cracking delivery boy. And Jeri Lou James, as the daughter, is naturally an overly precocious child. Supporting players are competent; production trappings, fine.

Remember My Friend Irma? Add a third roommate and you just about have It's Always Jan.

Tales of the Texas Rangers

Modern Rangers Willard Parker, l., and Harry Lauter use shortwave telephones.

Unlike other new Western shows on TV this season, Tales of the Texas Rangers makes no claims to being "adult" and "mature." It's telecast as part of CBS' Saturday morning block of children's programs and is slanted strictly for the kids. On that basis, it's a good, honest Western. It's sure to draw the small fry to their sets and is exciting enough to interest many adult Western fanciers.

Rangers has two fine heroes in Willard Parker and Harry Lauter, who portray Texas peace officers. They might be compared to Dragnet's Joe Friday and Frank Smith—but on horseback. Supporting actors, both "good guys" and "bad," are competent.

The stories range from the present era to pioneer days, depicting how the Rangers have progressed in their crime detection to the use of radio-equipped cars, helicopters, and other ultra-modern devices. A good word should be said for the excellent opening and closing scenes.—R.S.

FINE TUNING

By Ollie Crawford

France, England to have own $64,000 Question shows. Nobody like the Parisians for franc answers!

As for The 64,000 Pound Question in England, it's a sterling idea.

On the British show, it may be embarrassing to ask a buxom contestant: "You now have 264 pounds. Do you want to try for 528?" It's practically a show for quiz quids. The climax comes when Halliburton Marchmont asks: "You wouldn't be vulgar enough to try for $64,000, old man?"

And this is only the beginning. A Swedish big-money give-away program is just around the kroner.

In Germany, they'll be looking for easy marks. They already have one program where they give away pfifty pthousand pfennigs. The Chinese are experimenting with a 64,000 Yen Question, but that doesn't sound quite right.

In India and Pakistan, the idea of the show is known as "making rupee."

Then there's the Dixie version. They give away $64,000 in Confederate money and a certificate guaranteeing that the South will rise again.

In Person . . . Almost

'Electronicams' at work: Jackie Gleason, Art Carney being filmed by new process.

A New Development May Settle The Live-vs.-Film Controversy

All television, for years, has been divided into two camps, battling fiercely over whether filmed or live shows are the better answer to the medium's problems.

The war may end suddenly with the advent of Electronicam, a new filming process which, the inventor hopes, will produce a filmed show with all the spontaneity, vitality and effectiveness of a live one.

Jackie Gleason is the first to use Electronicam on a regular basis. He has adopted the process for his Honeymooners series, and he and his cast are putting on their show before a live studio audience. They run through the script without stopping to change camera "set-ups," as is usually done in a filmed show. And the result is what Gleason likes to call "a live-on-film program."

The Electronicam, owned by the Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, was designed and developed by James L. Caddigan, former program chief for the Du Mont network. Basically, it combines a motion picture camera with a regular television camera in a single operating unit.

In filming the show, the director calls his camera shots while watching the TV monitors in a TV control booth. Thus it's possible to incorporate into the filming the fast production techniques that are an integral part of live television production.

Secret of the Electronicam is an optical system that splits the camera's light source so that it is shared by both the film and the live TV pick-up sections of the unit. In ordinary filming, the director first sets up his shot by peering in the camera's viewfinder. After that, while the camera is rolling, only the cameraman can see what the film is recording. Because of the live TV aspects of Electronicam, the director sees simultaneously on his monitor screens what all his cameras, whatever their number (Gleason uses four), are picking up. In addition, a film director, sitting at another monitor control panel, can judge the technical quality of the film.

The camera itself allows the same freedom of movement and ease of focusing as a standard live TV camera. A single focus handle permits continuous control of focusing throughout the shooting sequence. And the cameraman can switch from one lens to another—from a long shot to a close-up—by pushing a button.

If you had a chance to sit in on a studio rehearsal of The Honeymooners, you'd hardly suspect the show was to be filmed. Gleason, Art Carney, Audrey Meadows, Joyce Randolph and others in the cast start rehearsing at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and finish about an hour-and-a-half later.

When they come back in the evening to film the shows before the live audience, they complete the entire half-hour script in about 40 minutes. As Gleason himself points out, it might take three days to film a show by standard filming procedures.

Since two Saturday night shows are filmed each week, on Tuesday and Thursday, the whole season's series can be finished by early spring.

It may be that the process will persuade many shows that are now being telecast live, to switch to film.

TV Saddens A 'Young Pro'

KIM STANLEY DOESN'T LIKE THE 'IT'S ALL OVER' FEELING

Far and away Broadway's "actress of the year" last season, judging from the near-unanimous testimony of critics and polls, was a hazel-eyed ash-blonde named Kim Stanley. Miss Stanley earned—and is still earning—cheers for her virtuoso performance as an appealing, not-too-bright cabaret singer in William Inge's hit play, "Bus Stop."

Broadway laurels have been perched frequently atop Miss Stanley's broad brow in the past few years, for skilful contributions to "The Chase," "Picnic" and "The Traveling Lady."

Yet, despite the stage's lavish rewards, Kim manages to find time—and kind words—for television. Between footlight chores, she regularly appears before the cameras, displaying a particular affection for TV Playhouse. In certain ways, she says thoughtfully, she prefers TV to other acting mediums.

"The emotional and physical muscles are the same for all acting," she points out, "but acting for a camera is more relaxing. You don't have to project to the last row of the balcony."

But if there are advantages, there are drawbacks, too. For the actor, Kim feels, TV is "sad" and "the least fulfilling." "You do a TV show once and it's all over. If the material is interesting, you can't repeat things and have new feelings come to you."

To Kim, whether on stage or TV, acting is largely "feeling." Even to pose for a TV GUIDE picture, she found it necessary to reconstruct a mood. Donning the brief cabaret costume she wears at one point in "Bus Stop," she ran through the emotional gamut that marked that particular sequence in the play.

Kim Stanley in TV's 'The Bridge,' with John Ireland and young Mike Oscard. Right: costumed for stage hit, 'Bus Stop.'

"If I pose," she admitted, a little self-consciously, "it comes out nothing. That's why some models can't act their way through a paper bag. They strike attitudes. I have to feel something to express it."

"Feelings," Kim explained, "often depend upon memory." In "Bus Stop," the action takes place on the night of a blizzard; the temperature in the theater, of course, is considerably warmer. Kim "gets cold" every night. "I try to remember how it feels. My fingers become icy and my nose runs."

Enough is enough. But sometimes, Kim admits, actors get carried away "feeling things." She cited an Omnibus production, "The Bullfighters." "Crying is what happens to you from the other person. John Cassavetes and I reacted to each other so well, we went into a trance. The reports were that I looked as though I'd burst into tears throughout the whole show."

Kim was born Patricia Kimberly Reed in Tularosa, N.M., but adopted her mother's family name, "Stanley," because "I couldn't see anyone named Patty Reed doing anything more serious than cheerleading." Her name subsequently underwent another change. As Mrs. Curt Conway, she's the wife of an actor-director and mother of two children—Lisa, 3, and Jamison Brian, one-and-a-half.

Although she did not start her professional acting career until 1950, today—at 30—she's a star.

She attended the Universities of New Mexico and Texas, majoring in psychology and taking part in undergraduate dramatics. When she first arrived in New York, after a stint with a Kentucky stock company, she modeled lingerie and saved her money, to work in little theaters the following year without pay.

She made her television debut in a melodrama by jumping out a window and that, she says smilingly, "started me on the emotional merry-go-round." In short order, she played more than 50 roles of increasing importance, finally gaining bravos in such TV dramas as "A Lady of Property" and "The Bridge."

Kim hopes to do a William Faulkner play on TV. And one of these days she would like to play Ophelia. "I have ideas about her. I don't, for instance, think she was a fair young maid, because," said Kim, "I'm sure Hamlet wouldn't have been one bit interested in her if she was."

Quiz Winners Soothe Hal March; Herb Shriner To Go Underwater

NEW YORK . . . Hal ($64,000 Question) March—who will be doing guest shots, now that he's a celebrity—says the sudden fame of winners on the quiz show completely transforms them. First night, he steadies them; by the third, they're steadying him. Hal was upset the evening he forgot, after a big build-up, to ask Capt. Richard McCutchen the $32,000 question. The following week, after the Marine cooking expert won the top prize, he said to March: "You did fine tonight, Hal." . . . And restaurateur Toots Shor, famous for insulting customers and himself, says he knows now The $64,000 Question must be a phony, because "Captain McCutchen came into my place to eat dinner—and if he was really an expert, he wouldn't be coming into a place like my joint."

McCutchen:

■ Camera addict Herb Shriner, who is also a boat enthusiast, has arranged to take a submarine ride, during which he'll shoot some movies for use on television. "To get anything new for TV today," says Herb, "you really gotta get below the surface of things."

■ The organization which telecast the Marciano-Moore championship fight over a closed circuit of movie houses became alarmed when word leaked out that it had permitted some New York friends to see the telecast in a studio. Seems it was not according to contract, and they feared complaints from the fight promoters. So now we're worrying about bootlegged boxing? . . . The mystery about some of TV's many mystery guests is where they dig 'em up.

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

RED SKELTON has bought up his CBS contract and plans to become a free agent after this season. He'll continue his CBS show but also is forming Skelton Enterprises, Inc., which will give him a chance to cash in personally on merchandise items, comic books, etc., as JACKIE GLEASON has done with his Gleason Enterprises, Inc. . . . SID CAESAR has the serious acting bug, wants to do an hour-long "book" show titled "The Funny Man."

The baseball season may be over, but not for Studio One. Coming up is an original play by ROD SERLING, "The Man Who Caught the Ball at Coogan's Bluff." (Coogan's Bluff, for the uninitiated, is the site of the N.Y. Giants' Polo Grounds.)

With NBC now telecasting about 10 hours a week of color shows, CBS is also accelerating its color schedule. All SKELTON shows this season are to be done in color . . . Climax! presents its first color show this Thursday, Oct. 20, and will probably do one a month thereafter . . . And each of the GENE AUTRY telefilms this month is to be colorcast.

PHIL SILVERS, insisting that the background laughter on his You'll Never Get Rich is legitimate and not canned, has nevertheless decided to re-edit the sound tracks on all completed films, to tone down the guffaws.

With the movie version of PADDY CHAYEFSKY's "Marty" a hot contender for Academy Award honors, NBC is cooking up a weekly TV series based on the "Marty" characters . . . Following CHAYEFSKY's lead, HORTON FOOTE and REGINALD ROSE will bring out books of their best TV plays. FOOTE, in fact, will have a new novel and his book of plays published on the same day this winter . . . White Mane, new horse-story series filmed in France, debuts soon.

DAVID DAVIDSON, who adapted "The Last Days of Hitler" for television, has completed "The Last Days of Stalin," upcoming soon on the Sunday night Alcoa Hour . . . Also set for that series is a musical version of JAMES THURBER's "Many Moons."

* * *

STEVE ALLEN signed to a new long-term contract by NBC -- which would seem to kill all the rumors that he was being dropped as host of Tonight . . . Wide Wide World planning to devote its third show to teen-agers. That will mean disc jockeys, rock 'n' roll music and such.

PERRY COMO liked MARION LORNE's work so much on his first two shows this season that he signed her as a regular . . . Kraft Theater's first musical in its long history of over 500 productions will be KURT WEILL's "Down in the Valley," Wednesday, Nov. 2.
